Claims 1-7 are objected to for using improper idiomatic English. The examiner requests that applicant clean up the language when submitting a response to this action.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tan in view of McIntyre. Tan shows a molded plastic sensor holder for holding the sensor against the finger with some local supports (3). The sensor can be any pressure sensor. McIntyre shows a pressure sensor arrangement including a cuff. Hence, it would have been obvious to use such a pressure sensor in the device of Tan, as it is merely the selection of a known pressure sensor.

Claims 4-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Itonaga et al, Muz, and Amano et al all show finger pressure sensors.
